

Assistant Professor – Clinical Psychology

The Department of Psychology at Indiana State University invites applications for a tenure-track appointment at the rank of assistant professor to begin Fall 2023. The position will primarily support our APA accredited clinical psychology doctoral (Psy.D.) program and include some undergraduate teaching. The position is open to clinical or counseling psychologists who are eligible for licensure and endorsement as a Health Service Provider in Psychology (HSPP) in Indiana. Additionally, we welcome applications from those who will contribute to diversity-focused training in our clinical psychology doctoral program. Individuals who may have had non-traditional career paths, who have taken time off for family reasons, or who have achieved excellence in careers outside of academia are also encouraged to apply.

The typical teaching load is 3 classes/semester. Specific responsibilities would include teaching graduate and undergraduate courses, supervision of empirical Psy.D. dissertations, overseeing therapeutic and assessment services provided by Psy.D. students working in the ISU Psychology clinic, and contributing to service activities in the department and university.

More information about the department and its programs can be found at www.indstate.edu/psychology.

Applicants must apply online at <https://jobs.indstate.edu/postings/41405> and submit a cover letter, that includes information on teaching and research interests, vita, graduate transcripts, and references (to be contacted if invited to interview). Applications should be received by January 1, 2023, for full consideration, but they will continue to be accepted until the position is filled. Inquiries about this position may be directed to the chairperson of the search committee, Liz O’Laughlin at lizo@indstate.edu.
