

University Communication

Office of the President

CAMPUS ANNOUNCEMENT

March 2, 2022

Indiana State University will make masks optional starting March 5

Based on recent guidance from the Centers for Disease Control, and in consultation with the Vigo County Health Department, Indiana State University will make masks optional starting March 5.

There is no change in the university's weekly testing policy. That remains mandatory for students and employees who have not provided proof of vaccination.

The campus community is asked to respect individuals' decisions about whether to wear a mask. It is possible that the occupant of a private office will ask others to wear a mask before entering. Everyone should be prepared to accommodate such requests by carrying a mask.

The university strongly encourages students and employees to be vaccinated. The Pfizer vaccine is available for free to students and employees from 1-4:30 p.m. on Tuesdays and Thursdays at the ISU Health Center.

ISU's guidelines are subject to change if conditions change.