The African American Cultural Center will continue to promote academic excellence for African American students through academically oriented programs and activities, maintain collaboration of programs with the ISU departments and the Terre Haute community, continue to make students aware of services provided by the African American Cultural Center through student contact, student organizations, and distributions of flyers through campus and community mailing. Another avenue that the AACC is pursuing, will be working with a newly formed organization, the African American Graduate Student Association, on their mentoring program. The African American Cultural Center will be providing assistance through facility use, advisory capacity, and referrals of undergraduates to the mentoring program.

Assessment

What are two ways in which you evaluated the quality or effectiveness in your area last year?
What changes did you make based on those assessments?

The evaluation procedures for programs are based on a variety of techniques implemented by the African-American Cultural Center staff and Student Advisory Board. Some techniques as attitude scales, program survey forms, end of semester evaluation report, individual program evaluation forms, and audience head count are used in the process of ascertaining the decision areas of concern, selecting appropriate information, and collecting and analyzing information in order to report summary data useful to examine and judge concerning the worth, quality, significance, and/or condition of the existing programs. The above evaluation tools are used to help make decisions concerning the selection among alternative directions for either reorganization and/or coordinating the presently funded programs.

Please describe the progress you have made on these action steps.

The Ebony Majestic Choir is an important part of the African American Cultural Center and Indiana State University. Performing actively during the fall and spring semesters of each academic year, the dedicated and disciplined young men and women represent the University as goodwill ambassadors. This year the choir traveled to Indianapolis, IN for the Office of Admissions and performed at the Arts Garden in Circle Center Mall. They will also sing for the Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority in Hopkinsville, KY in April. Not only does the choir travel throughout the Midwest, by they also perform locally for churches, schools, and other functions throughout the academic year. The African American Cultural Center will continue to utilize them as a recruitment tool for the University.
