

Life as a Medical Technologist and Indiana University School of Medicine Graduate Student

Krystiauna Cole- B.S. Chemistry Indiana State University 2020
Medical Technologist Methodist Hospital 3E Lab

Graduating from college amid a pandemic is far from easy. In nearly 4 years, I have endured many hardships which contribute to my current successes. By the end of this seminar, I hope to share with you my experiences and perspective as both a student and employee. Ralph Emerson once said "Knowledge is when you learn something new every day. Wisdom is when you let something go everyday". This mere sentence is very true in the adult world because anyone can take anything from you, except the knowledge that you possess and share. Each day I learn something new and each day I try to apply that new knowledge. In reference to the circle of life, yesterday's knowledge can be tomorrow's solution.