

Meet the Presenter

Dr Lowinsky received his undergraduate degree from Oberlin College in Oberlin, Ohio and his medical degree from the Medical College of Ohio at Toledo. He completed his general psychiatry residency at the University of Wisconsin in Madison, and his adolescent psychiatry, consultation, and family systems fellowship at the University of Toronto, Ontario, Canada.

Dr Lowinsky is board certified in adult psychiatry. He has received a number of awards including the Nancy C.A Roeske, M.D. Certificate of Excellence in Medical Student Education at the Indiana University School of Medicine. He was named a Top Doctor by Indianapolis Monthly 2015, 2016, 2017, 2018, 2019, and 2020. He has been elected distinguished fellow by the American Psychiatric Association. A member of the clinical faculties of Indiana University School of Medicine, Marion University School of Medicine, and the Butler University Physician Assistant Program.

Dr Lowinsky is particularly interested in the education and training of non-psychiatric medical and non-medical professionals in psychiatry. He is the co-founder of the Primary Care Psychiatry Foundation whose mission it is to educate and train primary care physicians and other professionals in the early identification, accurate diagnosis, effective treatment and appropriate referral of individuals to optimize their mental and physical health. He presents locally, regionally, and nationally to medical and nonmedical audiences on topics related to psychiatry.

His clinical practice at CRG is focused primarily on the treatment of adolescents, adults, medical professionals, and their families struggling with psychiatric disorders impairing their optimal functioning both professionally and personally.
