Updated: August 2025

Indiana State University

ENG 105 Section 004

Freshman Writing II

Catalog Course Description

Writing documented papers synthesizing information from several different sources, with emphasis on reading and writing as processes of discovery in thinking critically.

Faculty Information

Name: Dr. Harold Bosstick

Email: Harold.Bosstick@indstate.edu Department: Department Of English

Office Hours: 1 to 3 p.m. MW in person, 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Tueday on Teams

Course Learning Objectives

- LO1 Students produce writing that meets conventional expectations for a specific discipline and/or writing task. Student writing shows evidence of careful proofreading and attention to mechanics.
- LO2 Students demonstrate Rhetorical Knowledge to write effectively for different contexts, audiences, and purposes.
- LO3 Students can evaluate, integrate, synthesize, and cite primary and secondary sources accurately and ethically.
- LO4 Students apply course concepts and terminology to reflect critically on their own composing practices and/or rhetorical decisions.

Required Textbooks and Materials

None, digitial readings provided

Graded Elements of the Course

Research Project, which includes an annotated bibliography, research paper, and final portfolio