ISU announces new capacity limits for events

New capacity limits are in effect for Indiana State University events until Sept. 30.

ISU events may not exceed 50 people, including event organizers and guest speakers. It applies to all indoor and outdoor on-campus events, as well as off-campus events sponsored by University departments and organizations.

The new limit is an effort to protect ISU's campus community members and visitors given the increase in COVID-19 cases in Vigo County and the state.

Previously announced guidance limiting venue capacity to 25 percent still applies but should not exceed 50 people. Also, face coverings are still required for all events — indoor or outdoor. All previous rules and safety precautions are still in effect.
