

Psy.D Program Curriculum Map
Updated June 2017

Goal 1: To produce professional psychologists who understand and apply scientific knowledge and principals	Goal 2: To produce graduates who are effective and competent clinicians.						Goal 3: To prepare graduates to contribute to the field of psychology in the practitioner- scientist tradition
1.1 Knowledge of core areas of psychology Students will acquire knowledge of core areas of psychology 1.1.1 Demonstrate knowledge in the broad theoretical and scientific foundations of the field of psychology including biological, cognitive, affective, and social aspects of behavior.	1.2 Scientific methodology and measurement Students will acquire knowledge and skills needed to integrate scientific methodology and psychological measurement into clinical practice. 1.2.1 Demonstrate knowledge of statistics and research design	2.1 Competence in assessment and diagnosis Students will acquire knowledge, skill and supporting attitudes for competence in assessment and diagnosis. 2.1.1: Demonstrate competence relative to stage of training in assessment and diagnosis skills	2.2 Treat a range of mental health issues 2.2.1 Students will gain knowledge, ability and supporting attitudes to treat a range of mental health and adjustment issues. 2.2.2 Demonstrate knowledge and ability to evaluate client progress and treatment outcomes.	2.3 Ethical and professional Conduct ... 2.3.1 Demonstrate knowledge of ethical/professional codes, standards and guidelines 2.3.2. Demonstrate ability to recognize and analyze ethical and legal issues across the range of activities. Students will acquire knowledge, skills and supporting attitudes related to ethical and professional conduct in practice and research	2.4 Diversity Competence 2.4.1 Demonstrate competence in issues related to diversity across professional settings and activities. Students will acquire knowledge, skills and sensitivity to issues of cultural and individual diversity in professional work and relationships with patients, organizations and colleagues	2.5 Supervision and consultation Students will gain foundational knowledge and skills in supervision, and consultation 2.5.1 Demonstrate understanding of key concepts and processes of supervision and consultation 2.5.2. Demonstrate basic skills in supervision.	2.6 Interpersonal Skills 2.6.1 Produce and oral and written communication that is informative, well-integrated and demonstrates thorough grasp of professional language and concepts 2.6.2 Demonstrate Interpersonal skills, Including empathetic Listening, ability to Provide and receive Feedback, and To establish a Working alliance	3.1 Produce practicing psychologists and contributors to the profession To produce graduates who identify as practicing psychologists and contribute to the profession. 3.1.1 Graduates will have knowledge and skills needed for professional practice. 3.1.2 Graduate will contribute to the field through professional activities.	3.2 Graduates engage in life-long learning To produce graduates who engage in life- long learning. 3.2.1 Current students and Graduates will demonstrate commitment to continued professional developmental
Psy 521: History and Systems	I
Psy 566: Lifespan Development (Formerly Ontogeny)	I
Psy 602 Theoretical and Methodological Foundations of Psychology		I
Psy 603: Learning and Cognition	I
Psy 604: Advanced Statistics		I
Psy 607: Social Basis of Behavior	I
Psy 608: Biopsychology	I
Psy 664A: Ability Assessment			I			I

Goal 1: To produce professional psychologists who understand and apply scientific knowledge and principals		Goal 2: To produce graduates who are effective and competent clinicians.						Goal 3: To prepare graduates to contribute to the field of psychology in the practitioner-scientist tradition
1.1 Knowledge of core areas of psychology	1.2 Scientific methodology and measurement	2.1 Competence in assessment and diagnosis	2.2 Treat a range of mental health issues	2.3 Ethical and professional conduct	2.4 Diversity Competence	2.5 Supervision and consultation	2.6 Interpersonal Skills	3.1 Produce practicing psychologists and contributors to the profession	3.2 Graduates engage in life-long learning
Students will acquire knowledge of core areas of psychology 1. Demonstrate knowledge in the broad theoretical and scientific foundations of the field of psychology including biological, cognitive, affective, and social aspects of behavior.	Students will acquire knowledge and skills needed to integrate scientific methodology and psychological measurement into clinical practice. 1.2.1 Demonstrate knowledge of statistics and research design	Students will acquire knowledge, skill and supporting attitudes for competence in assessment and diagnosis. 2.1.1: Demonstrate competence relative to stage of training in assessment and diagnosis skills	2.2.1 Students will gain knowledge, ability and supporting attitudes to treat a range of mental health and adjustment issues. 2.2.2 Demonstrate knowledge and ability to evaluate client progress and treatment outcomes.	2.3.1 Demonstrate knowledge of ethical/professional codes, standards and guidelines 2.3.2. Demonstrate ability to recognize and analyze ethical and legal issues across the range of professional activities.	2.4.1 Demonstrate competence in issues related to diversity across professional settings and activities.	Students will gain foundational knowledge and skills in supervision, and consultation 2.5.1 Demonstrate understanding of key concepts and processes of supervision and consultation 2.5.2. Demonstrate basic skills in supervision.	2.6.1 Produce and oral and written communication that is informative, well-integrated and demonstrates thorough grasp of professional language and concepts 2.6.2 Demonstrate Interpersonal skills, Including empathetic Listening, ability to Provide and receive Feedback, and To establish a Working alliance	To produce graduates who identify as practicing psychologists and contribute to the profession. 3.1.1 Graduates will have knowledge and skills needed for professional practice. 3.1.2 Graduate will contribute to the field through professional activities.	To produce graduates who engage in life- long learning. 3.2.1 Graduates will demonstrate commitment to continued professional developmental
Psy 664C Objective Personality Assessment		I
Psy 6658 Cognitive Behavioral therapy			I
Psy 665A Foundations of Psychotherapy			I		I		I
Psy 658 Psychopharmacology	I
Psy 662 Personality Theories	I						I
PSY 663 Ethics and Professional Issues					R

Goal 1: To produce professional psychologists who understand and apply scientific knowledge and principals	Goal 2: To produce graduates who are effective and competent clinicians.							Goal 3: To prepare graduates to contribute to the field of psychology in the practitioner-scientist tradition
1.1 Knowledge of core areas of psychology Students will acquire knowledge of core areas of psychology 1. Demonstrate knowledge in the broad theoretical and scientific foundations of the field of psychology including biological, cognitive, affective, and social aspects of behavior.	1.2 Scientific methodology and measurement Students will acquire knowledge and skills needed to integrate scientific methodology and psychological measurement into clinical practice. 1.2.1 Demonstrate knowledge of statistics and research design	2.1 Competence in assessment and diagnosis Students will acquire knowledge, skill and supporting attitudes for competence in assessment and diagnosis. 2.1.1: Demonstrate competence relative to stage of training in assessment and diagnosis skills	2.2 Treat a range of mental health issues 2.2.1 Students will gain knowledge, ability and supporting attitudes to treat a range of mental health and adjustment issues. 2.2.2 Demonstrate knowledge and ability to evaluate client progress and treatment outcomes.	2.3 Ethical and professional conduct 2.3.1 Demonstrate knowledge of ethical/professional codes, standards and guidelines 2.3.2. Demonstrate ability to recognize and analyze ethical and legal issues across the range of professional activities.	2.4 Diversity Competence 2.4.1 Demonstrate competence in issues related to diversity across professional settings and activities.	2.5 Supervision and consultation Students will gain foundational knowledge and skills in supervision, and consultation 2.5.1 Demonstrate understanding of key concepts and processes of supervision and consultation 2.5.2. Demonstrate basic skills in supervision.	2.6 Interpersonal Skills 2.6.1 Produce and oral and written communication that is informative, well-integrated and demonstrates thorough grasp of professional language and concepts 2.6.2 Demonstrate Interpersonal skills, Including empathetic Listening, ability to Provide and receive Feedback, and To establish a Working alliance	3.1 Produce practicing psychologists and contributors to the profession To produce graduates who identify as practicing psychologists and contribute to the profession. 3.1.1 Graduates will have knowledge and skills needed for professional practice. 3,1,2 Graduate will contribute to the field through professional activities.	3.2 Graduates engage in life-long learning To produce graduates who engage in life- long learning. 3.2.1 Graduates will demonstrate commitment to continued professional developmental
Psy 668 Advanced Psychopathology	I				I		I
Psy 671 Clinical Supervision and Consultation						I, R
Psy 676 Advanced Assessment and Treatment			R	R			R
Psy 680 Clinical Research		R
Psy 690J 1st Year Practicum				I
Coun 666 Multicultural Counseling					R

Goal 1: To produce professional psychologists who understand and apply scientific knowledge and principals		Goal 2: To produce graduates who are effective and competent clinicians.						Goal 3: To prepare graduates to contribute to the field of psychology in the practitioner-scientist tradition
1.1 Knowledge of core areas of psychology Students will acquire knowledge of core areas of psychology 1. Demonstrate knowledge in the broad theoretical and scientific foundations of the field of psychology including biological, cognitive, affective, and social aspects of behavior.	1.2 Scientific methodology and measurement Students will acquire knowledge and skills needed to integrate scientific methodology and psychological measurement into clinical practice. 1.2.1 Demonstrate knowledge of statistics and research design	2.1 Competence in assessment and diagnosis Students will acquire knowledge, skill and supporting attitudes for competence in assessment and diagnosis. 2.1.1: Demonstrate competence relative to stage of training in assessment and diagnosis skills	2.2 Treat a range of mental health issues 2.2.1 Students will gain knowledge, ability and supporting attitudes to treat a range of mental health and adjustment issues. 2.2.2 Demonstrate knowledge and ability to evaluate client progress and treatment outcomes.	2.3 Ethical and professional conduct 2.3.1 Demonstrate knowledge of ethical/professional codes, standards and guidelines 2.3.2. Demonstrate ability to recognize and analyze ethical and legal issues across the range of professional activities.	2.4 Diversity Competence 2.4.1 Demonstrate competence in issues related to diversity across professional settings and activities.	2.5 Supervision and consultation Students will gain foundational knowledge and skills in supervision, and consultation 2.5.1 Demonstrate understanding of key concepts and processes of supervision and consultation 2.5.2. Demonstrate basic skills in supervision.	2.6 Interpersonal Skills 2.6.1 Produce and oral and written communication that is informative, well-integrated and demonstrates thorough grasp of professional language and concepts 2.6.2 Demonstrate Interpersonal skills, Including empathetic Listening, ability to Provide and receive Feedback, and To establish a Working alliance	3.1 Produce practicing psychologists and contributors to the profession To produce graduates who identify as practicing psychologists and contribute to the profession. 3.1.1 Graduates will have knowledge and skills needed for professional practice. 3,1,2 Graduate will contribute to the field through professional activities.	3.2 Graduates engage in life-long learning To produce graduates who engage in life- long learning. 3.2.1 Graduates will demonstrate commitment to continued professional developmental
Psy 696 Practicum		P	P	P	P	P	P	I	I
Psy 784 Internship		P	P	P	P
Psy 796 Field Placement		P	P	P	P
Psy 799 Dissertation	P

Legend: I Introduced P Practiced R Reinforced