

	I: analytical skills and argumentative writing founded on sound interpretation of evidence.	advanced inquiry practices	new trends and methodologies	knowledge of issues in their major field and familiarity with some issues in a wider world context	requirements of a historian, including ethical approaches, bibliographical conventions, and a sense of civic responsibility
Courses and Learning Activities
HIST 610	IN		IN	IN	R
HIST 620: U. S. Reading Seminar	R	P	R	P
HIST 660: Europe Reading Seminar	R	P	R	P
HIST 670: World Reading Seminar	R	P	R	R
HIST 650: Method and Theory	R	P	R	R	R
HIST 621: U. S. Research	R	R	R	P	R
HIST 661: Europe Research	R	R	R	P	R
HIST 671: World Research	R	R	R	R	R
HIST 623: U. S. Topics, Reading	R	P	P	P	P
HIST 622: U. S. Social Reform Movements	R	P	P	P	R