

Student Learning Outcomes Library

Office of Assessment & Accreditation

Indiana State University

PsyD Clinical Psychology

Spring 2020

Top of Form

Bottom of Form

Outcome	Related Foundational Studies or Graduate Goal
To produce professional psychologists who understand and apply scientific knowledge and principles
1.1 Knowledge of core areas of psychology: Demonstrate knowledge in the broad theoretical and scientific foundations of the field of psychology including biological, cognitive, affective, and social aspects of behavior.
1.2 Scientific methodology and measurement: Students will acquire knowledge and skills needed to integrate scientific methodology and psychological measurement into clinical practice. Students will demonstrate knowledge of statistics and research design.
To produce graduates who are effective and competent clinicians
2.1 Competence in assessment and diagnosis Students will acquire knowledge, skill and supporting attitudes for competence in assessment and diagnosis. Students will demonstrate competence relative to stage of training in assessment and diagnosis skills
2.2 Treat a range of mental health issues: Demonstrate knowledge of and ability to implement evidence- based interventions for a range of disorders. Demonstrate

knowledge and ability to evaluate client progress and treatment outcomes.
2.3 Ethical and professional conduct: Demonstrate knowledge of ethical/professional codes, standards and guidelines. Demonstrate ability to recognize and analyze ethical and legal issues across the range of professional activities.
2.4 Diversity Competence: Demonstrate competence in issues related to diversity across professional settings and activities.
2.5 Supervision and consultation: Students will gain foundational knowledge and skills in supervision, and consultation. Demonstrate understanding of key concepts and processes of supervision and consultation. Demonstrate basic skills in supervision.
To prepare graduates to contribute to the field of psychology in the practitioner-scientist tradition
3.1 Produce practicing psychologists and contributors to the profession: To produce graduates who identify as practicing psychologists and contribute to the profession. Graduates will have knowledge and skills needed for professional practice. Graduates will contribute to the field through professional activities.
3.2 Graduates engage in life-long learning: To produce graduates who engage in life-long learning. Graduates will demonstrate commitment to continued professional developmental.	