

As university officials continue to closely monitor state announcements, ISU advises supervisors to continue to allow university employees to work from home through May 15. This applies to all staff other than those providing essential campus services — as determined by vice presidents and/or cabinet members.