Living Learning Communities

The roommate and room choices your student can see in their housing portal is based on their community. We have a lot of Living Learning Communities (LLC) options for students to find the right place for them! These are a place where your student can live and learn together with other students, both in and out of the classroom. Every community is unique and can make Indiana State seem a bit smaller and more like home. Additionally, students who are involved in LLC's are shown to do better academically, become more involved on campus, and make more connections with faculty and staff.
