REPORT OF THE FACULY SENATE CHAIRPERSON (Dr. Brown)

Faculty are busily completing final grading for the semester and looking forward to Commencement tomorrow and for the break in the coming days.

In the semester ahead, faculty governance will be concerned with modifications to our biennial review policy and updates to promotion and tenure documents at the Department and College levels in response to the changes to Section 305 of the University Handbook that were approved last spring by Faculty Senate and the Board of Trustees.

On behalf of the faculty, I want to wish Dan and Cheri Bradley all the best as they embark on new adventures and we will be pleased to see them again when they return to campus.

The Faculty Senate Officers will be meeting with President Curtis on Monday. We hope to establish a positive, productive relationship with our new President and look forward to working with her and the Board in the coming months.

REPORT OF THE STAFF COUNCIL CHAIRPERSON (Ms. Phillips)

During our November meeting we recognized our Staff Council scholarship recipients as well as special recognition for President Bradley for his outstanding leadership and support of Staff Council. We also recognized Wil Downs with an excellence award and honorary lifetime membership for his commitment and dedication to Staff Council. Our focus the last couple of months has been fundraising. We sold Christmas ornaments to benefit our Staff Council Scholarship fund. We were able to raise close to $1,200 dollars for our scholarships. We are also wrapping up our shirt sales to benefit United Way. We sold over 300 shirts and once all money has been collected we will be donating over $1,500 to the United Way. Our employee benefits committee is working on researching student loan forgiveness programs and we will be getting that information out to employees after the first of the year. We are already working on some ideas for a Staff Appreciation event and fundraisers for next year and we will hit the ground running when we come back from winter break.

REPORT OF THE PRESIDENT OF THE STUDENT GOVERNEMNT ASSOCIATION (Mr. Smith)

Student Government Association worked diligently through the Fall semester to explore opportunities to anticipate and meet the needs of the student body.

Our annual Party at the Fountain welcome-back-bash signalled a strong start to the year, with an estimated attendance of nearly 1,800 students sustained through the night. Around the same time we launched a successful re-branding of The Forest, the student spirit section to match the intensity we want student's to experience during games to the imagery they see. Additionally, the revenue structure of The Forest was modified. The new structure allowed any and all students to be a part of The Forest at no-charge, as opposed to the original fee structure to join (and remain in) The Forest.

The Legislative Branch of SGA made great strides to improve and optimize the governing documents, adding clarity and direction to what was previously "Grey Areas". Significant changes were made to the campaigns and elections policies. Additionally, there has been a significant push to connect with the academic colleges and to increase representation of underrepresented communities on campus within SGA.

Parking, a hot-button-issue on college campuses across the country, was a particular area of focus for SGA in the Fall term. After conversations with administrators and many brainstorming sessions within the SGA office, the need for clear communication about the actual parking environment on campus was determined. Grant Hosticka, Unmanned Systems student and SGA Executive Assistant, worked closely with the Office of Communications and the SGA Director of Public Relations, Abby Niepagen, to create an informational video. Published across three social media platforms (Twitter, Facebook, and Instagram), the video amassed over 18,000 views in under three weeks. Since, we have received positive feedback from the student body and noticed a decrease in the number of negative parking-related posts on social media.

As we move into the Spring semester, SGA is excited to welcome Dr. Curtis to campus and continue fulfilling its mission. Areas of particular interest are academic advocacy, engaging with more student organizations directly and conducting a smooth SGA elections process.

REPORT OF THE VICE PRESIDENT DEVELOPMENT AND CEO OF THE ISU FOUNDATION (Mr. Carpenter)

Good news, cash giving to the ISU Foundation is up from last year by more than double. Total commitments to the Foundation, which includes cash giving, pledges and planned gifts are also ahead of last year at this time. Over $2 million has been raised in total commitments.

The number of President's Society members is ahead of last year's pace by 17%.

The Division has a robust and effective planned giving program, with good follow-up and documentation of donor intent. The Division currently has on file some $30.1 million in planned gift expectancies from some 130 donors and 153 separate gifts.

The Division has a growing stewardship program that not only ensures proper thanking of donors for their gifts, but strategic opportunities to recognize and engage donors. There is particular emphasis on stewarding President's Society members in order to retain existing, and attract new members. The Development Officers continue to build close working relationships with each of the academic deans to which they are assigned. This is important to help identify curriculum and programmatic strengths and promote key funding needs for each academic unit.

The Division of Development is working with University Communications and Marketing to carve out a strong social media presence for the ISU Foundation, primarily through ISU's existing social media platforms. The end goal is to create an Annual Day of Giving for our University.

Annual Giving is trending up over last year, to date with a 10% increase. The number of donors is up over 6% as well. We believe the new concentrated plan is working for our good this year.

The plans for the Faculty & Staff Campaign is the next focus for the Assistant Director of Annual Giving. This campaign will start post-ISU Spring Break. We are excited to share that Provost Mike Licari will once again chair this for us.

The President's Society stewardship ornaments have been delivered or mailed and we are receiving positive feedback on the ornament this year. It happens to be our favorite.

REPORT OF THE UNIVERSITY PRESIDENT (Dr. Bradley)

Good afternoon.

President's Council on Inclusive Excellence

On your agenda today is the acceptance of the 2016-2017 annual report from the President's Council on Inclusive Excellence. Copies of the report are at your place. I would like to call upon the co-chairs of the council, Associate Vice President for Inclusive Excellence Leah Reynolds and Associate Vice President for Student Success Josh Powers to provide a few highlights of the group's work and top goals for 2017-2018.

[Comments from Leah and Josh]

College of Health and Human Services

Earlier today, we held a ribbon-cutting for Phase I of the $64 million College of Health and Human Services project. The building will be ready to be occupied later this spring. We are indebted to former Sen. Luke Kenley, Rep. Tim Brown, our local legislators, former Governor Pence and the Commission for Higher Education for their support of this project. It is going to be a fantastic addition to our campus.

The excitement over this $64 million project is also spurring some philanthropic activity. At the October 20th meeting, the Board of Trustees approved the delegation of authority to the President to approve naming rights for gifts under $25,000 for new construction and renovation of existing buildings. I am pleased to report that three gifts have resulted in named areas for the College of Health and Human Services. An anonymous gift will name the landing near the Dr. Richard D. Spear Seminar Room in memory of Dr. Howard S. Ishisaka. The close proximity of these spaces represents the interaction and professional relationship these two had during their tenure at Indiana State University.

In addition, the fourth floor gathering space will be named the Robyn Lugar and Family 4th Floor Social Area in honor of Robyn's 25 years of work in the Social Work Department. Lastly, the Doctorate in Athletic Training Student Social Area has been named in honor of the inaugural doctorate in athletic training cohort which started in 2017. The latter was the result of a generous gift from Dr. Lindsey Eberman and Dr. Kenneth Games, two faculty members in the program.

Introduction of Corry Smith

At this time, I would like to call upon Vice President Willie Banks to introduce the new coordinator of fraternity and sorority life, Corry Smith.

[Comments from Dr. Banks]

Thank you, Willie and congratulations Corry.

A Way with Words – Cordell Video

Last month, Cunningham Memorial Library hosted a Sesquicentennial Event paying tribute to the Schick Lecture Series and the Cordell Dictionary Collection. The event featured the co-hosts of the popular NPR show “A Way with Words,” and the audience enjoyed asking the hosts about the origin of various sayings. The hosts even added a new definition of the term railroaded to their knowledge bank as they discovered what it means to be stopped by a train in Terre Haute.

I would like to ask Robin Crumrin, Dean of Library Services, to say a few words about the event, another great evening celebrating our 150+ history.

[Comments from Robin /showing of Cordell video]

Thank you, Robin.

Closing comment

In closing, I would like to thank the Board of Trustees for providing me with the opportunity to serve as Indiana State’s president. Cheri and I are deeply appreciative of the support we received from the trustees, the faculty, staff, students, alumni, legislators and others. Indiana State is a wonderful university that fills an important mission in Indiana’s higher education marketplace. We wish President Curtis and the entire Indiana State family all the best in the future. Thank you.

That concludes my report.

REPORT OF THE BOARD CHAIRPERSON (Mr. Campbell)

Dan and Cheri I would like to thank you for your service and we will be honoring you later on. It has been a pleasure to work with each of you.

I would like to congratulate those students who will be graduating. Thank you goes to everyone who has anything to do with their success including everyone in this room and about 3000 other people around campus our students, faculty, staff, administrators and last but not least the board. This is our job to educate young people and make them better citizens and then send them into the world and workforce place. This part of our pleasant past is to watch them walk across the stage and graduate. Finals are over and we are approaching the holiday season.

I want everyone to enjoy the holidays and get some rest, because when you come back there is a new sheriff in town. I have talked with President Curtis several times over the last few days, and she is anxious to get started. She is looking forward to being at ISU. She has already set up meetings with various group with the help of a very robust transition committee. Thanks to Ed Pease and Nancy Rogers and all of those serving on the committee. I want you to be full of energy when President Curtis arrives and help her acclimate to Indiana State. One of the discussions she and I had was about spending the first six or seven weeks listening. Listening to faculty, donors, staff, listening to our students, being introduced to the community and alumni. Then after six or seven weeks, we are going to sit down and see what she has learned and what priorities that she may have or we want her to have. Please help her to acclimate and educate her about Indiana State. As much pleasure as we have had over the last nine years, when you come back from the holiday rested, it is time to look forward and to keep moving forward. We have had incredible success and that is attributed to a lot of people, and we want to keep moving in that direction.

Have a happy holiday and get lots of rest.

5c Modification to University Handbook

5c1 Modification to Policy 245 Faculty Constitution

Rationale: The faculty have, in accordance with the Faculty Constitution amendment provisions, approved a modification to the Constitution to address Faculty Senate vacancies during a term. This language will allow for a more expedient replacement process and avoids a special election for the seat. Faculty Senate supports this Constitutional change, as does the administration.

Current Language

245.3.3.5 Vacancies. A seat which becomes vacant before the end of the term of office because of death, resignation, leave of absence, or other cause shall be filled for the period of vacancy from the most recent list of nominees on which a vote of the college represented has been held, the seat being offered to the nominee not currently a member of the University Faculty Senate who had the largest vote, and so on successively until the seat is filled. When there are no remaining nominees for a Senate seat, the seat shall not count to the total number of seats when determining whether a quorum has been met.

245.3.3.6 Special Election. No special election shall be held unless a petition for a special election is signed by one-fourth of the voting members of the college.

Proposed Language

245.3.3.5 Vacancies. Should a Senate seat become vacant before the end of the term of office because of death, resignation, leave of absence, or other cause, it shall be filled for the period of vacancy by using the results from the most recent Senate election and offered to the nominee (not currently a member of the University Faculty Senate) of the affected college who had the largest vote, and so on successively until the seat is filled. Should a replacement not be identified in this manner, the college shall select a nominee using a process defined in its Constitution. No faculty member (without regard to the process used to make the selection) will be eligible to fill a vacancy if they were not eligible in the most recent election on which a vote has been held. For the period of time when a Senate seat is unoccupied, the seat shall not count to the total number of seats when determining whether quorum has been met.

Recommendation: Approve the modification to Policy 245.3.3.5 and remove Policy 245.3.3.6.

On a motion by Mr. Taylor, seconded by Mrs. Smith, the recommendation was approved.

5c2 Modification of Policy 930 Acceptable Use of Information Technology (currently Information Technology Policy), Modification of Policy 937 University-Related Websites, Modification of Policy 938 ISU Web Publications, Modification of Policy 939 Domain Naming, and Removal of University Handbook Policies 933, 934, and 941

Rationale: The ISU administration has recently conducted a review of those University Handbook Policies involving use of university-owned technology, protection and security of university data, and web-related resources. The goal was to streamline the policy information and to ensure that updated policies contained clear expectations of university employees and students, while allowing for flexibility to adapt to changing technology. These policies are the first to be presented to the Board of Trustees for review and approval. The following specific modifications are requested:

Modification of Policy 930 Acceptable Use of Information Technology (currently Information Technology Policy)
Modification of Policy 937 University-Related Websites
Modification of Policy 938 ISU Web Publications Policy
Modification of Policy 939 Domain Naming Policy
Removal of Policies 933, 934, and 941

The proposed modifications were approved by the Staff Council and the Faculty Senate.

Proposed Modification to Policy 930, Policy 937, Policy 938, and Policy 939.

930 Acceptable Use of Information Technology

930.1 Overview.

Indiana State University provides a variety of computing resources to its campus and public constituents. Those who use University information resources are to take reasonable and necessary measures to safeguard the operating integrity of institutional systems and data. This policy covers aspects of legitimate use, information security, and privacy that arise in the use of computers, software, and electronic information. This policy strives to balance the individual's ability to benefit fully from these resources and the University's responsibility to maintain the accessibility, integrity, utility, and security of the electronic information environment.

The University's responsibilities in this area can generally be described as the delivery of information technology resources that are stable, reliable, and secure, and the delivery of support for those resources. In the information technology environment today, individuals and the institution play a role in meeting those responsibilities. As context for the requirements of acceptable use by individuals, it is helpful to understand in more detail some of the institutional duties in providing and supporting information technology. These include:

- a. Ensuring efficient and reliable performance of University computer systems and networks.
- b. Establishing and supporting reasonable standards of security for electronic information that University community members produce, use, or distribute.
- c. Protecting University computers, networks and information from destruction, tampering, unauthorized inspection and use.
- d. Ensuring that information technology resources are used in a manner consistent with the University's mission.
- e. Defining the limits of privacy that can be expected in the use of networked computer resources and preserving freedom of expression over this medium without countenancing unlawful activities.
- f. Ensuring that University computer systems do not lose important information due to hardware, software, or administrative failures or breakdowns.
- g. Communicating University policies and individuals' responsibilities systematically and regularly in a variety of formats, to all parts of the University community.
- h. Monitoring policies and proposing changes in policy as events or technology warrant.
- i. Managing computing resources so that members of the University community benefit equitably from their use.
- j. Enforcing policies by restricting access in case of serious violations (see section on "Sanctions").

930.2 Scope.

This policy applies to the use of all computing devices owned by Indiana State University, and to all computing devices owned by others that are attached to the institutional network or used in the processing of institutional business or the creation, receipt, transmission, processing, use, storage, printing, or dissemination of institutional data.

930.3 Individual Responsibilities.

Indiana State University supports networked information resources to further its mission and to foster a community of shared inquiry. All members of the University community must be cognizant of the rules and conventions that make these resources secure and efficient. It is the responsibility of each member of the University community to comply with all applicable University IT policies and standards, including the following standard practices.

930.3.1 Respect Others. Respect the right of others to be free from harassment or intimidation to the same extent that this right is recognized in the use of other communications media. Consequently, although each user has the right to freedom of speech, unlawful or harassing material may not be sent or displayed to others.

930.3.2 Respect Intellectual Property Rights. Respect copyright and other intellectual property rights. Unauthorized copying of files or passwords belonging to others or to the University may constitute plagiarism or theft. Modifying files without authorization (including altering information, introducing viruses or other malware, or damaging files) is unethical and may be illegal.

930.3.3 Maintain Secure Passwords. Users must establish appropriate passwords in the first instance, and should use different passwords for University accounts than are used for non-University accounts. Passwords must not be shared with others. This means that, except in emergency situations, University employees must not give someone else their password, and they must not accept a request, offer, or direction to use someone else's password. If an emergency situation arises where a user's password must be shared to perform a specific function, that password must be changed immediately. For accounts used in University operations, and for applications or services where University data is stored, users must change their password every six months, at a minimum. If a password is compromised, or if it is suspected or known that another individual has learned a user's password, the user must change their password immediately. Passwords should not be stored or transmitted through electronic communications, but if they must be, they must be encrypted.

930.3.4 Identify Oneself Accurately. Identify oneself accurately and appropriately in electronic communications.

930.3.5 Use Resources Efficiently. Accept limitations or restrictions on computing resources such as storage space, time limits, or amount of resources consumed when asked to do so by authorized personnel. University resources are to be used in a manner consistent with the University's mission. Use of University resources for personal activities should in no way interfere with or take precedence over institutional uses. Indiana State University computing resources may not be used for commercial purposes.

930.3.6 Recognize Limitations on Privacy. Recognize the limitations to privacy afforded by electronic services. Users have a right to expect that what they create, store, and send will be seen only by those to whom permission is given. Users must know, however, that the security of electronic files on shared systems and networks is not inviolable – most people respect the security and privacy protocols, but a determined, technically-well-informed person may be able to breach them. Users must also note that, as part of their responsibilities, systems or technical managers may occasionally need to diagnose or solve problems by examining the contents of system files. Furthermore, when a personal device is used in the conduct of University business, there should be no expectation of privacy related to University data stored on or transmitted by that personal device.

930.3.7 Recognize University's Maintenance of Network. An individual's right to privacy may be superseded by the University's responsibility to maintain the network's integrity. Should the security of the network or a computer system be threatened, a person's files may be examined by an OIT administrator with approval from the Provost and Vice President for Academic Affairs or Associate Vice President for OIT or designee. By law, instances can arise when material created or received via electronic means must be divulged (i.e., pursuant to a validly issued subpoena in connection with legal action).

930.3.8 Abide by Security Restrictions. Abide by security restrictions on all systems and information to which access is permitted. Users should not attempt to evade, disable, or “crack” passwords or other security provisions.

930.3.9 Abide by Laws. Abide by all applicable federal and state laws. Indiana State University extends these principles and guidelines to systems outside the University that are accessed via the University’s facilities (i.e., electronic mail or remote logins using the University’s Internet connections). Network or computing providers outside Indiana State University may also impose their own conditions of appropriate use for which users at this University are responsible. For violations of the above, see the "Sanctions" section of this policy.

930.3.10. Abide by Export Controls. Indiana State University and its faculty, staff, and students must comply with all United State export control laws and regulations. Export control laws cover assets of the institution when they are taken or shipped to locations outside the United States, and in some cases when foreign nationals have access to certain kinds of equipment within the United States. Faculty, staff, and students are responsible for understanding whether equipment they are working with or responsible for is covered by export regulations in cases where they are traveling outside the United States, or working with foreign nationals inside the United States. The Office of the Provost can advise on the requirements for specific data.

930.3.11 Abide by Security Restrictions and Best Practices When Using Personal Devices for Institutional Business. Maintain awareness of, understand, and follow policies and recommended best practices for security when using personal mobile or other devices to access institutional resources such as Internet-based services and electronic mail accounts. When specific standards are identified by the institution, abide by those standards. Personal devices used to create, access, store, transmit, use, or process institutional data or perform institutional business must adhere to institutional standards for data and information security (see Policy 932). In particular, a personal device used for institutional business, including electronic mail, or to store institutional data must be password protected.

930.4 Department and Individual Responsibilities with Servers

930.4.1 Approval Required. Servers that are not maintained by OIT must be registered with and approved by OIT prior to their connection to the institutional network. Unregistered servers that are detected on the network may be disconnected and removed without notice by OIT.

930.4.2. Security. Servers and applications that are run on those servers that are not supported by OIT must be maintained at all times to a current level of upgrade for security. OIT may audit such servers at any time.

930.5 Sanctions.

Individuals or groups who act in a manner contrary to existing policy and accepted standards for computer use or who take actions which have legal implications are subject to appropriate sanctions.

930.5.1 Suspension or Revocation of Privileges. Indiana State University reserves the right, at all times, to suspend or revoke the privilege of access to University electronic services. Violations of information technology policies will be dealt with in the same manner as violations of other University policies and may result in disciplinary review.

930.5.2 Role of Office of Information Technology. As a first step, such matters will be addressed by the appropriate Office of Information Technology (OIT) administrator. Whenever it becomes necessary to enforce University rules or policies, the University may take the following steps, and any other steps it deems appropriate to address the use or misuse of University electronic services. An authorized OIT administrator may:

- a. Disallow network connections by certain computers (departmental or personal).
- b. Require adequate identification of computers and users on the network.
- c. Undertake audits of software or information on shared systems where there is sufficient reason to suspect policy violations.
- d. Take steps to secure compromised computers that are connected to the network.
- e. Restrict or deny access to computers, the network, and institutional software and databases.
- f. Refer the matter for disciplinary action.

930.5.3 Cooperation in Investigation. Users are expected to cooperate with authorized investigations either of technical problems or of possible unauthorized or irresponsible use as defined in these guidelines; failure to do so may be additional grounds for suspension or termination of resource access privileges.

930.5.4 Appeal. If a matter is not resolved in discussion with the OIT administrator within 24 hours, the OIT administrator's action may be appealed to the administrator's direct supervisor or referred to the appropriate University administrator for resolution in a timely manner. Any revocation of privileges is subject to the normal due process available to all members of the faculty, staff and student body.

930.5.4.1 Civil/Criminal Concerns. In addition, certain kinds of abuse (such as copyright violation, fraud, violation of software licenses, or harassment) may entail initiation of civil or criminal investigation and/or prosecution.

930.5.5 Additional Questions. Additional questions relating to this policy should be directed to the Chief Information Officer in the Office of Information Technology.

937 University-Related Websites.

937.1 Statement of Policy.

Any website associated with Indiana State University using the designations "Indiana State University," "Indiana State," "ISU," "Sycamores," or other University-associated name, nickname, abbreviation, trademark, or symbol, whether established by an academic or administrative unit, a center, a group or individual, must adhere to the following:

- (a) Ownership of the registered website name will be held by Indiana State University, and such registration will be made only by the Office of Communications and Marketing.
- (b) Selection of the domain name for the registered website must protect the educational status of the official Indiana State University network.
- (c) The primacy of the official Indiana State University website(s) and/or portal(s) must be secured and maintained.
- (d) Appropriate hosting, server, bandwidth, and associated content and technical support must be secured and approved in advance.
- (e) Website content must comply with all official University policies, standards, and practices included in the current University Standards, policies on the use of the University seal, logo, and other ISU symbols, and other standards and practices, including those regularly posted on the official Indiana State University websites. The website may not be used to provide or deliver content to non-ISU sites that frame or otherwise juxtapose it with any other material in such a manner as to make it appear the content originated at the other location.

937.2 Review of Websites; Noncompliance.

The Associate Vice President, Office of Communications and Marketing, or designee, will regularly review all websites with names related to Indiana State University for compliance with this policy and procedures. Any websites not in compliance will be notified and dealt with as provided in the ISU Web Publications Policy. Failure to comply with these policies and procedures may result in action including termination of the website and/or appropriate civil or criminal action against the website developers/providers/owners.

938 ISU Web Publications Policy

938.1 Purpose.

The University recognizes the value and potential of publishing on the Internet and so encourages and supports students, staff, and faculty to publish electronic information. Units and individuals may create web pages that are consistent with the University's mission.

938.2 Statement of Policy.

The quality of information published by the University is an important element in maintaining the reputation and image of the University. This policy establishes the following minimum standards and procedures to assist the University community in ensuring that information published electronically follows the same high standards as other forms of University published information (print, audiovisual, etc.).

938.2.1 Content of Pages Must Comply With ISU Standards Regarding Nondiscrimination. Contents of all electronic pages, including their associated links, on University equipment must follow University standards regarding nondiscrimination and should be consistent with the University's mission.

938.2.2 Compliance with Copyright Laws. Copyright laws apply to electronic publishing as well as to print publishing. Information providers must follow the provisions of the institutional copyright policy and procedures.

938.2.3 No University Resources for Personal Business or Gain. University resources may not be used to create or display web pages primarily for personal business or personal gain, except as permitted by other University policies. Resources may not be used to provide or deliver content to non-ISU sites that frame or otherwise juxtapose it with any other material in such a manner as to make it appear the content originated at the other location.

939 Domain Naming Policy

939.1 Purpose.

Indiana State University is the owner of certain Internet address (IP) space and has registered certain domain names for its use. The purpose of this policy is to preserve and control the Internet domain name resources of the University for support of its mission of teaching, research, and service.

939.2 Applicability.

This policy applies to all students, faculty and staff who use the Indiana State University network and systems.

939.3 Statement of Policy.

939.3.1 Ownership. Indiana State University is the owner of the Internet address (IP) space 139.102.1.1 through 139.102.200.254 and 139.102.207.1 through 139.102.254.254, and uses the Internet domain name “indstate.edu”. ISU has also registered numerous other variants as a protection against the possibility of exploitation of University’s reputation by others. A list of these may be found at the OIT website.

939.3.2 Restrictions on Registration. ISU Internet (IP) addresses may not be registered for use with any other domain name except as permitted below.

939.3.2.1 Domain Name Service. The Office of Information Technology (OIT) is responsible for implementing Domain Name Service (DNS) for all systems connected to the campus network, and for coordinating this service with other campus units. DNS resolves names and network addresses for network routing to on-campus and off-campus destinations.

939.3.2.2 ISU Domain Names. ISU departments, programs and approved activities are eligible to use indstate.edu top level domain names upon request to Office of Communications and Marketing. This request must be from a dean or vice president and will either be approved by Associate Vice President of Marketing and Communications or forwarded to the Vice President of Enrollment Management, Marketing and Communications for further consideration. Requests should be made to the Associate Vice President of Marketing and Communications.

939.3.2.2.1 Top Level Name. To be considered for a top level name a server would need to be of global interest to the Indiana State University community (e.g. ithelp.indstate.edu).

939.4 Exceptions.

Unusual name requests, circumstances, and issues will be referred to the Associate Vice President of Marketing and Communications for further consideration. Final determination will be subject to the approval of the Associate Vice President of Marketing and Communications.

Recommendation: Approve the proposed modifications to Policy 930 Acceptable Use of Information Technology (currently Information Technology Policy), Policy 937 University-Related Websites, Policy 938 ISU Web Publications, Policy 939 Domain Naming, and approve removal of University Handbook Policies 933, 934, and 941

On a motion by Mr. Pease, seconded by Mrs. Cabello, the recommendation was approved.

5e Presidential Contract

Recommendation: Approval of the employment contract between Indiana State University and Dr. Deborah J. Curtis.

On a motion by Mr. Case, seconded by Mrs. Powers, the recommendation was approved.

5f Conferral of Honorary Degrees

William “Bill” Wolfe

Bill Wolfe is an Indiana sculptor and painter whose studio is located in the small town of West Terre Haute. He is an accomplished artist in the mediums of both two and three-dimensional art with works located throughout the United States. He studied art at Indiana State University and from there was the co-developer/owner of an advertising and marketing firm named Ideas Incorporated before turning to art as a full-time profession.

Locally, he is known for his 17-foot-tall statue of basketball legend Larry Bird, the V12 Sailor statue at ISU, the murals in the Vigo County Courthouse depicting 53 local people influential in politics, military, education, arts, entertainment and sports, the sculpture of the late Terre Haute poet Max Ehrmann and the recently completed presidential portrait of ISU President Daniel J. Bradley and First Lady Cheri Bradley. He also restored the Gilbert Wilson murals located in University Hall.

His marketing background also led Bill to serve as producer of the ISU Men’s Basketball shows during the eras of Coach Tates Locke and Coach Sherman Dillard. Many people do not know that he was also the artist who won the contest to create ISU’s mascot, and that Bill is the one who dubbed it Sycamore Sam.

The majority of Bill’s work now focuses on life-size monuments. Working in collaboration with Sincerus Foundry, of Indianapolis, Bill has become a successful sculptor documented by numerous television appearances and newspaper articles. His works can be found throughout Indiana and as far east as Webster, Massachusetts.

In recognition of his significant contributions to the world of art, William Wolfe is recommended for conferral of an honorary master of fine arts during the December 16, 2017 commencement ceremony.

The Honorable Luke Kenley

The Honorable Luke Kenley retired from the Indiana General Assembly in September ending a quarter-century of distinguished service as a state senator. The Noblesville Republican was first elected to the State Senate in 1992 and has directly influenced major public policy issues relating to transportation and infrastructure, economic development, and K-12 education issues. He has been instrumental to higher education in the State of Indiana with his leadership of the Senate Appropriations Committee and his authoring budget bills that support universities across the state as well as key statewide initiatives such as the 21st Century Scholars Program.

Senator Kenley’s support for high priority capital projects such as the College of Health and Human Services and the Hulman Center are two of several projects that are transforming the physical campus of Indiana State University. His support for funding the Indiana Principal Leadership Institute, housed on this campus, enables public school principals across the state engage in leadership development programs, and his support of Indiana State's student success initiatives has led to increase improvement in student retention and graduation rates.

Prior to the Senate, he served as a Noblesville City Court Judge for 15 years. He also worked as a lawyer and then led a family business, growing it from 20 to more than 200 employees. An officer in the United States Army during the Vietnam War era, Senator Kenley is a graduate of Noblesville High School. He earned a bachelor's degree from the Miami University and a juris doctorate degree from Harvard Law School.

In recognition of his extensive career in public service, the Honorable Luke Kenley is recommended for conferral of an honorary doctor of humane letters during the December 16, 2017 commencement ceremony.

Recommendation: Approval of the conferral of the honorary master of fine arts to William Wolfe and the honorary doctor of humane letters to the Honorable Luke Kenley.

On a motion by Mr. Taylor, seconded by Mrs. Smith, the recommendation was approved.

5g Recognition of Service – Dr. Daniel J. Bradley and First Lady L. Cheri Bradley

WHEREAS, Dr. Daniel J. Bradley has provided exemplary leadership and steadfast loyalty and commitment to Indiana State University during his tenure as its eleventh President from 2008 to 2018; and

WHEREAS, President Daniel J. Bradley has been ably assisted throughout his presidency by First Lady L. Cheri Bradley and together they have been exemplary representatives of Indiana State University; and

WHEREAS, the University has made great strides during the past 10 years through the development and implementation of comprehensive strategic planning that has resulted in the highest enrollment in the university's history; increased retention and graduation rates and degree production; more than 1.3 million hours of community service performed annually by ISU students; a number one national ranking for service from Washington Monthly's College Guide; and an infusion of experiential learning components into all degree programs; and

WHEREAS, the university's relationships with members of the Indiana General Assembly have been significantly strengthened leading to support for the largest capital projects in the university's history; and

WHEREAS, the campus has been transformed with more than $300 million in capital projects completed during President Bradley's tenure including several renovations of historic structures; and

WHEREAS, diversity among the students, faculty, staff and campus leadership has increased significantly and an emphasis has been placed on creating an environment of inclusive excellence; and

WHEREAS, Indiana State University has served as a catalyst for the redevelopment of downtown Terre Haute and the riverfront area; and

WHEREAS, President Daniel J. Bradley and First Lady L. Cheri Bradley have been actively engaged on the local, state, and national level and have been exemplary role models of servant leadership; and

WHEREAS, First Lady L. Cheri Bradley has made an indelible impact on the students attending Indiana State through numerous outreach efforts including her annual Lemonade Stand, the hosting of countless students and student organizations at Condit House events, numerous presentations to student groups, and continual display of care and concern for all;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED that the Indiana State University Board of Trustees expresses grateful recognition, high commendation and sincere best wishes to Dr. Daniel J. Bradley and First Lady L. Cheri Bradley; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that the title of President Emeritus and Trustee Professor of Chemistry be bestowed upon Dr. Daniel J. Bradley, and the title of First Lady Emerita be bestowed upon L. Cheri Bradley; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that the President's Medal for Leadership, Scholarship, and Service shall henceforth be named the Daniel J. Bradley Medal for Leadership, Scholarship, and Service and that this honor shall be awarded to an outstanding member of each graduating class of Indiana State University; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that this Resolution be spread upon the minutes of the Indiana State University Board of Trustees and that a copy thereof be duly executed and transmitted to them.

Recommendation: Approval of the resolution recognizing Dr. Daniel J. Bradley for his service as the eleventh president of Indiana State University.

On a motion by Mr. Campbell, the recommendation was approved by acclamation.

5h Report of the President's Council for Inclusive Excellence

Recommendation: Acceptance of the annual report of the President's Council for Inclusive Excellence.

On a motion by Mr. Pease, seconded by Mrs. Powers, the recommendation was accepted.

5i Establishment of the Indiana State University Honors College

Rationale: The administration seeks approval to establish the Indiana State University Honors College. Faculty Senate has unanimously approved this proposal. In short, the current University Honors Program would be transitioned to an Honors College. Student participation in the honors college has grown significantly, and honors retention, 4, and 6-year graduation rates continue to exceed university averages by 20+%. The goal of the Honors College would be to extend and strengthen the engagement, support, community, and mentoring aspects of the current Honors Program. The current Honors Program already fully meets most of the criteria for an Honors College as set forth by the National Collegiate Honors Council (NCHC), and the proposal approved by Faculty Senate and supported by the administration addresses any areas that will need to be addressed in the transition.

Recommendation: The administration, with the support of Faculty Senate, requests approval of the transition of the current University Honors Program into a newly-established Indiana State University Honors College.

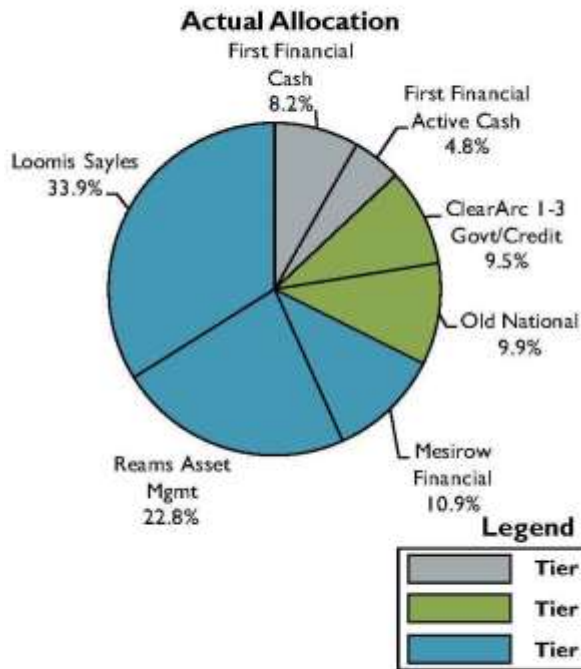

On a motion by Mrs. Powers, seconded by Mrs. Smith, the recommendation to add 5i Establishment of the Indiana State University Honors College to the agenda and the addition was approved.

On a motion by Mr. Case, seconded by Mr. Pease, the recommendation was approved.
